¹ The CTG Leadership Council Advisory Group is a group of leaders, decision makers, and foundations in Los Angeles that meet quarterly with the Leadership Council to learn about the project.

² The CHC CTG grant program is divided into seven committees that meet regularly; two of these have subcommittees.

Racial and Ethnic Approaches to Community Health was an obesity and hypertension Demonstration Project. The three-year grant was to develop and implement "replicable and scalable" policy, systems, and environmental changes in South Los Angeles. The project focused on three significant policy initiatives in the prevention and management of chronic disease:

- Improve the quality of nutrition and physical activity resources in public schools.
- Adopt and implement hypertension and obesity prevention interventions within Federally Qualified Health Centers.
- Update individual community plans and adopt land-use policies and processes to address community health needs.
